From 10 a.m. on Friday April 20, 2018, the Hungarian Library Institute will hold a professional workshop day entitled Library Spaces of the Future as part of the Modern Library, Advanced Services - K2 further training series in the Ceremonial Hall of National Széchényi Library.

With the appearance of the library in digital space, physical library spaces will not lose their importance, but they will fulfill new functions in the future. In case of public and higher education libraries, it is of top priority to reconsider user demands. On this occasion, innovative, state-of-the-art Hungarian and international solutions will be presented to the professional audience. Issues will be discussed from the viewpoint of a variety of library types.
